It's easy to see what the problem is here. The federal government /Congress /FDA. Sack them all, I say. No doubt the same people are controlling all of them and the same thing goes on in other countries. But what I find hard to swallow is, universities accepting money from pharma companies to do their trials. Scientific integrity has flown out the window. There have always been people who lose all integrity when given enough of a bribe, but the scale of it today is mind-blowing.

It use to be where universities did the studies and students got their PhD's, but today universities can obtain patents on their finding which brings in a whole lot more money than just a students cost for education.

As you say, Its_All_Light, but as i say in a different way, "Business is business and love, integrity and morality is BS.

The pharmaceutical mafia has a new priority development with priority review voucher (PRV) programs to stimulate the development of new medicines and vaccines are an unusually clear and direct example of a pure economic solution where corrupt capitalism is encouraged, where pharmaceutical corporations study the investment if they are really worth it is to see what people are going to pay for it. It is clear that this leads to a lack of safety of vaccines and more chances of serious harm to people. This encourages more the pharmaceutical mafia.

The tactics of the pharmaceutical industry are well described in Peter C Gøtzsche's book "Medicines that kill and organized crime." "It is frightening to see the similarities that exist between the pharmaceutical industry and the mafia. The Mafia gains an obscene amount of money ... The industry too The side effects of organized crime are homicides and deaths, the same as those of the pharmaceutical industry. politicians bribes from the mafia and others, just like the industry www.bmj.com/.../1167

The research has suggested a relationship between HPV vaccination and at least two autoimmune conditions: systemic lupus erythematosus and orthostatic postural tachycardia syndrome, an abnormal heart rhythm condition that often overlaps with chronic fatigue syndrome.

On April 30, 2018, a Swedish researcher published in the Indian Journal of Medical Ethics that the HPV vaccine may be causing rather than preventing cervical cancer in some women. (2018)

Cochranes must recover the confidence of being a rigorous and systematic reference in the process of reviewing health interventions. However, Cochranes manages a large amount of funds, with some of the largest health agencies of the world government such as INIH, the WHO, with close collaboration, the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, etc. Pharmaceutical corporations have opted for Cochrane to build a test system, and this can endanger bias. Vaccination is a big goal, because it moves huge amounts of money

Lars Jorgensen, Peter C Gøtzsche and Tom Jefferson carry out a Cochrane review of the HPV vaccine, where they state that this review was incomplete and they committed an important information bias. In the Cochrane review, almost half of the eligible trials were lost, including Gardasil 9, using active adjuvants in the comparators that increased the appearance of damage in the comparison groups.

The Cochrane review incompletely evaluated the serious and systemic adverse effects, such as cervical cancers, cases of orthostatic postural tachycardia syndrome and complex regional pain syndrome and other aspects. It is clear that the Cochrane authors committed a serious information bias on the HPV vaccine and all trials should identify their limitations. ebm.bmj.com/.../165

Long ago, an MMR was $5 wholesale. Nowadays, pediatricians make big bucks pushing them. 50 years ago when somebody died, the doc scribbled "heart attack or Pneumonia" on the death certificate. 25 years ago, infectious disease speshulists started scribbling, "Influenza" on them and created a fake scare epidemic that is used to market flu shots. The innate immune system goes to work instantly devouring bugs and killing them with natural antibiotics (antimicrobial peptides). In contrast, it takes two days for the flu shot adaptive antibodies to show up for work. I like everyone else have inhaled millions of flu viruses without ever having had a flu shot. The best adaptive antibodies are made in our airways are IgA and are free. Injected flu antigen produces ineffective IgG antibodies. Herd immunity to facts is being suppressed by an epidemic of fake news. Pro-vax ignoranti stand down! Sit! Stay!

If the corporations and their administrators/stakeholders and research personnel (employees) have such faith in the vaccine, there should be a mandatory vaccination of all of the administrators/investors/stakeholders/employees and all family (immediate or extended) members of those administrators/investors/stakeholders/employees (parents, siblings, present or ex spouses, children, grandchildren, aunts, uncles, cousins etc.) that fall into the category of the population that is being targeted by these vaccines. The administration of those vaccinations should be video recorded (vaccines from randomly selected batches by a dis-interested third party (third party undisclosed to the corporation) and verified that the vaccination was actually administered, and those videos made accessible to the public, HIPAA is beside the point here) and followed for periods of time following the vaccination (48 hrs, 1 wk, 2 wks, 1 month, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year post vaccination) to verify the validity of the vaccination. This is their chance to showcase to the world what their vaccines can do, they need to show some faith in their product, that it will actually do what it is being advertised to do.

Shame on the individuals in these agencies that go along with this corruption.....I have and I would think the world has NO use for people like this.....it would be a better place if people like this would change their evil ways,and do their work in a proper manner.

Bill Gates is about depleting the population. Vaccinations is only one way he is involved in this.

I remember a lot of yrs. ago when the medical profession - doctors, drug companies, lawyers, etc. weren't allowed to advertise on TV, and other media. Nowadays, they're prancing all over the place with huge, expensive ads about all their products that are available for anything that ails you. Ask your doctor. Ask your doctor. That's because now there are so many drugs for everything, your doctor hasn't a clue because he/she is too busy with their hectic schedule, so they depend on Drug Salesman who brings their precious sample box, and the patients who are now educated from TV, radio, or big elaborate 3 page ads in a magazine.

I find it disgusting to see the ads on TV where a young teenage boy/girl are blaming their parents because they didn't advise them to get a certain vaccine and now are being exposed to disease.

It's certainly a sad situation but we haven't got a big enough soapbox, as the average person (especially parents) trust their doctors who have a 'degree', and know that vaccine is necessary to "protect" them - especially their children. Life-long protection...yeah, right. How many become dependent for lifelong care?

I found this site earlier and after sending it to a friend, decided to post it. This shows just why parents are scared into thinking their way. The information is truly disturbing as you read along, and one that upset me is under the heading "Can getting so many vaccines at once harm my baby?" Of course, it goes on with all the arguments about why it's so important to have the vaccines, making light of any and all the horrible disabling illnesses and deaths that can and DO arise after the immunizations. They also explain away the autism causes. With many sites such as this, it's no wonder parents are so confused. kidshealth.org/.../fact-myth-immunizations.html

"Vaccine hesitancy and refusal are being addressed with a five-year NIH grant for $1.7 million to Georgetown University researchers working with researchers from University of Georgia, Pennsylvania State and Emory University "to identify areas of the country where vaccine refusal is on the rise."

It's very telling that, rather than attempt to address the concerns of "anti-vaccine" folks by doing research designed to see if their concerns are valid (though such studies already exist, of course), they are instead choosing to spend huge amounts of tax payer money on finding the best ways to convince and coerce people into getting the "required" and "recommended" vaccines. Instead of spending money on vaccine safety studies (which really should be the main focus of ALL vaccine research), they want to spend most of it on convincing people to just get with the program. Pure capitalist corruption on a massive scale.

the CORRUPTION has intensified through a process of Social Decay that is the End Game of the influence peddling that allows Big Pharma to endow and choose academic staff and decide how Modern Medical students are to be educated - the authoring of university text books goes back to Rockefeller Patent Medicines when the " Pill " became the major weapon in the Big Pharma arsenal following Rockefeller's transition from snake oil salesman to conservative Medical Authority - Rockefeller endowed Medical Faculties and placed employees on the Boards of Ivy League Meedical Faculties - Rockefeller Money TALKS and everyone is forced to listen - the present malaise is a direct consequence of this historical narrative - greed stimulates more greed and the result is the CRIMINAL massaging of scientific data and OUTRIGHT LIES - these Pharma shareholders and their Corporate employees are hypnotized by the wealth that their DISHONESTY allows them to accumulate - unless the populace rises up and throws off their Slave Chains of collusive blindness our whole species will go down the TOILET like everything else on our once beautiful Planet - hwew is a link - www.corbettreport.com/meet-william-rockefeller-snake-oil-salesman/
