In 1997, IBM's super computer, Deep Blue, defeated chess champion Gary Kasparov. Whatever disappointment Kasparov might have felt having lost the match for Team Human, and no matter how much self-congratulatory significance the tech side may have associated with this event, certain facts remained. Kasparov was no less brilliant than he was before the match. His body was still animated with a mysterious life force. He still possessed—actualized or in degrees of potential—the capacity for creative insight, feeling, will, desire, imagination, love, wisdom, empathy, conscience, intuition and consciousness.

Deep Blue remained a machine, an amazingly fast calculating machine, but still a machine, with an “on,” an “off” and a plug in a socket somewhere. It won one for Team Technocrat and its rising stars, Gates, Musk, Kuzweil, anticipating the inevitable superiority of technology. And that's the con....

The con works by not acknowledging the realities of mind and being where technology can never be superior, or even functioning. Instead, they offer not life, not consciousness, but the small subset of human faculties within the limited reach of algorithmic simulation. These become the allowable, legitimate arenas of human effort, and our implied blueprint, a sub-human “trans-humanism.” That cookie-cutter definition of mankind is the straw man the technocrats can best and control; therefore, much schooling and propaganda goes into crafting that definition and getting us to conform to it.

We do so at a terrible cost. Increasingly, we play on Technocracy's chessboard, a stimulus/response level controllable through fear and appetites. That checkered domain is ruled by small tyrants fearful we may discover our innate greatness. That discovery is concisely formulated in the Delphic injunction, “Know Thyself,” not narcissism, but awareness and identity on higher ground, those wondrous “birthright” levels technology cannot reach. That's no game; it's Real Freedom.

Guillermou

Unfortunately on the chessboard is BigPharma that dominates the playing field of government institutions and bodies for "health" and food, an oligarchy made up of a great technocracy that has used corrupt maneuvers to dominate the media. and make ourselves slaves of their wishes. A great player Bill Gates enters the scene An exhibit by Columbia Journalism Review reveals that, to control global journalism, Bill Gates has allocated more than $ 250 million to control global journalism. Gates also funds an army of independent fact-checkers, who use his fact-checking platforms to "silence naysayers" and "discredit" such as "false conspiracy theories" and "disinformation," charges Gates has defended and invested in. biometric chips, vaccine identification systems, satellite surveillance and COVID vaccines. childrenshealthdefense.org/news/press-in-his-pocket-bill-gates-buys-me.. (September 03, 2020).

The technological revolution has changed our real existential question. on how human beings could remain free. Technology has eroded personal privacy. The changes produced by the information technology revolution are more profound than those generated by the industrial revolution. The technological revolution needs ethics or it will enslave us. Is that possible ?. It seems that this pandemic is showing the opposite, the loss of rights and freedoms is polarizing our lives to slavery.

Freedom is known in the discernment of man, in his ability to choose between good and evil. Our lives are information banks, our lives are given over to the oligarchies of power that use our data to drag us into consumerism and submit us to extreme surveillance. We have lost the freedom to be private people, knowingly or hypnotized, bewitched, we broadcast a version of ourselves in the digital world for dominance purposes, to make techno-fascist structures more powerful.

Dr. Steven

Well put, Darzoum! You articulate the centrality of being human, spiritual beings with the power of reason, emotion, and gift of natural life that will always transcend artificial technological devices which are fast becoming the "false gods" of a technocratic-dominated culture that has no use for freedom of speech or transcendent spiritualities. We anthropomorphize technologies--e.g. "Siri" and "Alexa" and allow ourselves to become increasingly addicted to the point that smart phones interfere with social interaction and our attention spans continue to fade. Now, with media-induced virus fear and social control, we are forced to become even more dependent upon the tools of technocrats.

Gui, thanks for the insights. That Gates has his evil hands even in the so-called fact-checking sites, while influencing media reporting with his money is frightening indeed. You rightly note the freedom to choose between good and evil. The tearing down and silencing of traditional values and institutions seem part of this attempt to blur the distinction between good and evil and truth and falsehood. Technology and its technocratic masters seek to become the source of human devotion, rather than a higher power. I continue to reflect on the simple yet profound statement, "The truth will set you free" (John 8:32); when the truth is blurred or suppressed, we are not free.

Your best yet, Darzoum. They must have done their homework in technology, agriculture, biochemistry, pharmacology, virology, to have succeeded so far. The intentions of the eugenists of the 1930's and 40's were obvious in disposing of whole populations in gas chambers. The present threat perpetuates that ideology by an elite drawn from Big Corporate, Big Ag, Big Money, Big Tech, Big Pharma, Big Lab and other fellow travellers - self-appointed arbiters of life or death and the remainder who shall be controlled through personal data theft and microchipped via vaccination. I am reminded of my former language instructor from Poland who warned that his country feared a post war totalitarian conquest by the Russians more than they did Hitler and the fascists. Today we are faced with a supra-combination of fascism combined with communist-like disdain for the individual, human rights combined with the monetary superpower and influence of big corporations, their buying up of medics and health agencies, the world's news and social media, all combined into one task force. Technocracy and the internet of things has been integral to the success of their global agenda.

Cabochon

Cognitive dissonance, eh? Your average punter would not know what that was if it came up and shook him by the hand. But we mercolians have a moral duty to transcribe this information to anyone who will listen and especially to those who won't. War/civil war has indeed been declared - wartime restrictions on freedom of movement and freedom of thought are being enforced by governments and pseudo-governments, information is being censored and replaced by propaganda broadcast by their wartime allies in their news and social media armed forces in the face of no particular threat more dangerous than the annual flu season. In any war, information is key, unless protected by national security for protection of the state. As neither the CIA nor MI5 has declared information on hydroxychloroquine and NAC as classified, I will continue to disseminate information about how to survive any virus, expose lies as listed above and donate books detailing these crimes against humanity as listed on mercola.com. Another ploy might be to hand each mask wearer a leaflet as they step off public transport. Other (legal and peaceful) suggestions welcome.

Perfect Darzuom, "Super Computer's" are the ultimate Allopathic System, On or Off, dry bland facts, the broken watch we find is right twice a day when it comes to questions of the Foundations of Life, of Our Garden, Planet Earth - The Garden of Eden. To blindly worship these machines is to fall into what some ancient cultures warn us to transcend, Dualistic, Allopathic Thinking & Living.

You've again made a statement we can not repeat or share enough! {"We do so at a terrible cost. Increasingly, we play on Technocracy's chessboard, a stimulus/response level controllable through fear and appetites. That checkered domain is ruled by small tyrants fearful we may discover our innate greatness. That's no game; it's Real Freedom."}

If pursued regardless if it is allowed we can enter a much larger world of awareness, starting with our own! We start by taking the log out of our own eye before we even think of taking the piece of sawdust out of our neighbors. We may be able to then see every Positive has a Negative, every Negative has a Positive. To look from above to see a much larger terrain instead of trapped inside the tiny cubicles of the Techno-Nazi's Modern Day Tower of Babble. It's like the image on the dollar bill of the all seeing Eye of God, or Reason, looking down on a pyramid. It sees all sides, it is not like the tiny people and the tiny ego bound controlled minds standing in front having their lives moved by being stuck only seeing one side of the pyramid, (issue/issues.) Read this article carefully and know the Wall of Silence is huge. These tactics and more have been used repeatedly. Keep this in mind and review your life and the times you've seen such B.S. used against Organic Foods, Supplements, Environmentalist, Left or Right Wingers & so on.

When it comes down to it, chess ultimately comes down to combinations and permutations. Of course a computer can play through literally all possible scenarios for a given board configuration, and it just came down to developing a fast enough processor for a computer to make the best move every time within a certain time interval. Big deal. But when it comes to the essential matters of LOVE, compassion, ethic, and creative endeavors - in other words, the true essence of LIFE, a computer is only as good as its programmer. Simply stated, computers got no SOUL, maaan! By emphasizing the machine and devaluating the person, humanity is selling its soul. The Beatles said all you need is love and I agree. Machines got no love.

Dr. Steven

I'm assuming You Tube will soon remove this video for "misinformation" as so many alternative views on this virus have been censored by Big Tech working in tandem with Big Media and Big Pharma. The constant barrage of negative media coverage on outlets like CNN and the New York Times, filtering down to local papers and news reports, seems like a deliberate attempt to weary the public into submission. Wearing masks that obscure our expressions and identities, being told to keep apart, and shaming for trying to go about daily activities from church to weddings (huge protests get a pass for some reason), all feed into this nefarious social control.

Remember "flattening the curve"? We did that but the media soon moved on, as noted above, to obsession with "cases," as if keeping score in an athletic contest. We're living in an alternate reality: people are going about their daily lives, yes gathering socially even without "masks," yet if one turns on the news you'd think we were all in severe danger of dying from the virus. I find it disturbing that even now, with many things reopened, the CDC is still running commercials telling people to "stay home" and leave the house only when necessary. Who profits from our misery? With the election coming up, we know the media will double down on their crisis reporting as a means to achieve desired political outcomes. The question for the public is, will we be sheep or will we wake up and assert our Constitutional rights and civil liberties before they are taken away under the guise of a deadly virus that most people will never suffer from?

Yes, Dr Steven, the media defend the big monopolies who are decisive voters to bring the candidates best suited to their interests to power, to serve the requests of the ruling class to corrupt oligarchies and to the power of the technocrats. Fear is on your way. These media are constantly generating a mostly irrational fear of the contagion of COVID-19, which is actually a less serious reality than the usual annual influenza pandemics on the planet, they are multinational corporations led by executives of large wealthy and influential companies. Members of a strategically connected ruling class who have large personal investments in large pharmaceutical, large vaccine, and large drug corporations. In the actions of this power they are in the group of the Gates / Fauci coalition that is complying with the globalist agenda of the World Economic Forum of forced vaccinations and forced closures, that are intentionally killing personal freedoms, they become owners of small businesses, gaining greater control, they haunt people's thoughts, turning them into submissive sheep that follow dictatorships of lies and deception.

Well; that sums it up quite nicely, don't you think? I seem to recall making most of those points, myself, throughout this fiasco. Now; if only the oblivious hoards could gain access to this kind of information. Once again...I refuse to play this game! None of this insanity should make any sense at all to anyone still capable of rational thought! IMHO; I believe that it is totally criminal to force small children 3-4 years old (or anyone, for that matter) to restrict their breathing, by covering their breathing apparatus!

Posted On 09/05/2020

Guillermou

Yes. RANDY, it is quite a drama to put masks on the children. All children trust faces. Since they are babies, children observe people's faces for signs that will make them feel safe. When faces are partially covered by a mask, children cannot see the friendly smile or familiar look that would convey reassurance. When a young child cannot see another person's full face, they have a harder time feeling safe. It is natural for him to freak out. Children can react with feelings of fear or withdrawal when seeing other people wear them, in addition children with Autism have difficulty recognizing facial gestures that express emotions, and masks make it even more difficult, because they hide a part of the face of the person wearing it.

The worst is yet to come with the vaccines. It is a much greater attack against health to give the COVID-19 vaccine to children, because they are asymptomatic. Vaccines are depressing their immune systems and making them prey to chronic disease in adulthood. In 2020, a study included New Jersey, where the autism rate was found to be one in 32 (3.1%) children, 1 in 20 children. New Jersey is often credited with having the most accurate autism numbers due to its reporting system. Still, nowhere in the scant media coverage of the 2020 increase did anyone express concern that the New Jersey rate could actually be the rate for the entire country. They literally developed a spider web, in which they lured people with 'freedoms' and the comforts of technology. Now these 'freedoms' are taken away - because what can be given can be taken away - and we see that all comforts have a cost in the end. All of this was planned from the beginning to manipulate people and they use this 'device' because we gave them conscious or unconscious consent; "they" use power that we do not use; "they" are just an indication that something is wrong with humanity as a whole, as is "our" way of behaving

Yes, CMS, they take away our freedoms and in return the economic and social "collateral damage" of COVID-19 is mass unemployment, poverty, economic inequalities, death and despair that flows from the financial establishment. We have a blockade that destroys our institutions, undermines family life and social relations, closes schools and universities, destroys culture (including music and the arts), impoverishes large sectors of the world's population. The goal of financial elites, multi-million dollar foundations, and philanthropists is the concentration of wealth, the bankruptcy of the real economy, mass unemployment, and inequality.

"Uncertain times" is one of the most grating phrases along with "death counts" and "new normal" heard repetitively when one simply tries to get a weather report....Feeling outta control leads to anxiety, depression and sympathetic immune weakness driven deeper with a soundtrack of scary music.....Heck, the public bought Lee Harvey Oswald, 9/11, constant war, drank Coke and chewed Doublemint gum; so why not, psyops work. We were also trained to esteem celebrity and the authority of academic correctness along with the omnipotence of God, somehow held in the hands of robed men.....Look at a university graduation ceremony in the halls of the new centers of high technology and see if it doesn't smack of a medieval church spectacular replete with silly hats and hymn. It's our society and culture that has led to this covid inquisition, capturing the minds of potentially free and sovereign people.

Guillermou

Accurate phrases, RANDALL. The new normal will never come. It is the overwhelming domain of opportunistic science and media technology in the developed world with its training of professionals in key areas such as management, the "medical sciences", and other "sciences" that try to dominate people and install the oligarchy in instead of democracy. This has been a field for the most aggressive and arbitrary practices, aimed at obstructing the development of the true capacities to guarantee freedom and defense of the environment. This has favored the creation of monopolies with ample possibilities to set the rules of the globalization game, and skew them completely in their favor.

The direct owners of the knowledge are the experts. It is clear that they are a very powerful pressure group, although there is a great discussion about their impact on fundamental decisions. In the private area, they are the owners of financial and economic capital. In the public area they obtain great weight in relation to the power of elected politicians. In a world with an explosion of inequalities, where the richest 20% have 86% of the Gross World Product, 84% of savings and investment, 95% of credit, and the poorest 20% have 1%, power over knowledge tends to be asymmetric, producing large global inequalities

Large organizations are hierarchical and attract ambitious people looking to rise to the top. Recruit the best and brightest, but filter out anyone who defies your defined ends. leadership positions promoted precisely because of their aggressiveness and confidence in promoting the mission of technocracy. No, our culture no longer produces great souls; instead, we produce celebrities, pundits, and technocratic warlords like Bill Gates, *** Cheney, and Michelle Rhee. In their own minds they are right and everyone else is wrong. We are in the Age of Technocracy of the cultural void created where once there was a soul is now full of the urge to consume.

Rose is right. Very few are aware of what's going on. The only ones aware are those who subscribe to, read and listen to alternative media and the natural health world (like Mercola readers). In other words, those who do their own research and dig deeper. Unfortunately, I believe we are a very small group in the grand scheme of things. It may seem like a big portion of people, but remember you're seeing and reading comments only from those who are already aware of this stuff. I do think the group is growing and will grow faster the more tyrannical gov't gets, but it is nowhere near being a large portion of the populace.

If I were to go out and ask 50 people in my workplace or the area where I live about GMO's, I highly doubt more than one (none would probably be more likely) would even have a clue what that meant or what I was talking about. I live in the grain belt where farming is dominant, so there will be some farmers or those familiar with farming who know what GMO means, but as far as the controversy surrounding them and the negative effects? Not very likely. The unfortunate fact is most people are totally clueless, don't care and are completely gullible and prone to all the mainstream media and gov't fear-mongering.

I've attempted in the past to make mention or comment to people at work about natural health stuff and have learned it is pointless. They won't give you the time of day and are not interested. Most people will do and take whatever medications and treatments their doctor gives them and believe whatever drivel the media and gov't "experts" spew out.

Example: One of my coworkers read where getting a flu vaccine makes you 36% more likely to contract Covid. She told me about the article she'd read, which I of course already knew about that study. So wouldn't that make you NOT want to get a flu vaccine this fall? Well, my workplace just posted the signup sheet for flu vaccines and guess what...she still signed up for it!

I do think this whole Covid stuff is helping the natural health world to grow. So much of it is contrived and fake that more people are seeing through it. Where I live most people think it's all a bunch of crap. Only the few (very few) liberal dominated counties in my state and liberal dominated larger towns/cities are in a tizzy about it and demanding mask wearing and whatnot. The majority of people couldn't care less and are just going about their daily lives.

I wear a face shield instead of a mask so I can breathe. I have no illusions about this, but it keeps me from being hassled and wasting my time when I must be out in public. As long as I breathe air and the virus is airborne... I went thru all this intimidation crap when I had cancer and they tried to pigeonhole me into standard therapy. In that respect, it taught me a lot about not going along and standing up for myself. I still argue with "the experts". Even if I must do it from behind a mask. None of my neighbors wears a mask when back and forth. I ask in supermarkets, offices, shops and doctors offices if any employees have gotten sick.

So far, not one example in my immediate circle. Either we are unusually healthy and immune or you are symptomless and need a test to find out if you are "sick". Covid is just not a high priority in my life or front-and-center on my radar. I have optimized my vitamin D and just get on with my life. This is the time of year for sunshine and fresh garden produce. I am less concerned. This is the best time of year to get sick and rapidly recover--not isolate people until late winter when more who are exposed might not survive. This is the best time to practice herd immunity.

Yes, "cases" is an interesting one. Every day, my local news tells us about the total number of cases in my state. The implication is that is how many people are sick right now, which couldn't be further from the truth. First, these cases are a number of positive tests, not number of people. If you tested positive two weeks ago and tested positive again today, that's two cases, yet you are only one person. Second, the tallies presented on the news are number of cases since this all began. Most of those people have recovered, so a small part of the cases actually represent people who are sick right now.

Best.Article.Yet! Cognitive dissonance, psychological manipulation, blatant lies and omissions of facts. I've been saying this from the beginning (and LONG before the current epidemic regarding hyper manipulation of mainstream medicine). What really scares me is "what comes next?" But more importantly, "what can us regular folks do NOW?" How has the slow ebb of technocracy been so subversive that the majority of the population is asleep and keeps voting into public office the fraudulent sentries that claim to be protecting us? Will enough regular people wake up in time before it's too late? I am encouraged slightly by the massive anti-mask and anti-CoVid control demonstrations in late August in places like Dublin, London and Berlin. And - please don't bash me for this as I prefer peaceful resolution but I am not opposed to activating constitutionally mandated force by the people if it becomes necessary for the removal of government — so I find a bit of comfort in the 12 million g*ns sold year-to-date in the US. Wake up sleepy-heads, wake up!

All of these things have gradually become more obvious to anyone with open eyes. We are being hoodwinked and harassed into accepting much of this trope and dogma. It's good to see that the truth is finally starting to break out, but I fear this will only increase the pushback from the Technocrats.

In short, what is being practiced are forms of extortion. If you want to prevent Covid-19 from infecting people, you must take the vaccine, that is extortion. You must comply with social distancing, which is extortion. You must wear a mask or you cannot enter this store, that is extortion. When one signs the W-4 and 1040 forms, that is extortion. I could on and on because extortion is practiced every day by our politicians, police, and now so-called "medical professionals."

In times past, vast armies would be posed to attack a country, for which the negotiators of the impending army would be granted a meeting, and extort monies from such countries who could not defend themselves. As long as the money is paid, the army will not attack. When the money runs out, all bets are off. When enough people refuse the vaccination, then the army, or some form of authority, will be sent in to force us to be vaccinated, even if it kills, which it will. There are two ways to die--by nature or by government. As long as the government is practicing extortion, we are all under threat.

Chook, perhaps you need to do a little bit more homework. You could read mercola.com main articles going back to March, 2020 and be sure to include the comments pages. If it were only about money, it would be a relatively simple affair. But money is an important tool in the political and social engineering plan by deep state conspirators to cull the world's population and control the remainder through personal data theft, vaccination and microchipping, technology, prescription drugs and food adulteration This agenda has been many decades in the planning and has been warned about by filmmakers and other observers. Reread your Orwell and your Huxley, who were writing about the new world order as far back as the 1930's and 40's.

What these writers did not predict was the rise and rise of technocracy and corporate power becoming synonymous with political power through unlimited supply of money initially, as you quite rightly puzzled over - but only as a tool to buy their way into influential organisations, the other tools in their arsenal of war weaponry being social engineering, fear, panic, economic meltdown, antisocial distancing and thought manipulation such as implanting ideas regarding the new "abnormal". If you conclude during your researches that most governments must be complicit in these arrangements, then you are spot on. Just remember this is no time for naivety. Keep vigilant and question everything you are told by officialdom.

Cabochon is correct - they want to massively reduce the population down to around 500,000...they want enough "worker bees" to do their bidding. There's tons of info documenting this. Thing is, they are a very tiny % of the population...we are far more in number...if enough of us wake up, stand up and fight back we can win. It won't be easy but this is what they fear - a mass awakening and fighting back. I pray we can do it in time.

I think the medical establishment is corrupted by outside influences, mainly from when they went to Medical school. I think they serve only to make a profit and stopped doing real healthcare when big corporations bought out the religious hospitals that were serious about healthcare and took anybody, not matter who or what their economic resources were. I think it is a corporate, socialistic 'healthcare industrial establishment' that bogs down the government with costs. The more they can get from the government, the more they want.

As far as what you say in this article, I think it isn't true what you are saying about taking all the precautions necessary to prevent the spread of SARS-COV2 by using masks, physical distancing (not social distancing), and not having too many people in the same room at the same time. Outdoor dining is best. It is true that the odds are high that anybody will catch it or even higher that they will die from it, but it is the elderly and others who are endangered that need the protection, not the crowd that you are talking about! As far as the doublespeak that those in the medical field engage in - I agree with you on that. As far as the electronic data gathering by the medical establishment, it is a part of the police state. The police state has been taking over our schools, hospitals, corporations, and any place they could get their eyes into electronic records. They have access to cameras nationwide in the U.S. which they use for policing and most likely for political policing also! The police state is the government and nobody will ever get elected unless they are for the police state in the first place. They are vetted or they don't get in - period. It is a combination of our government, technology, and inequality that has allowed a few wealthy people to control the entire country, including the political process - by buying it!

So one way of reaching the programmed is to point out facts they are not programmed to address. Facts like people who are vitamin D deficient have been the ones dying. Then reference the campaigns against sun exposure. They believed that they needed SPF 50 or better because to not do so, was to be guaranteed of having skin cancer. No thinking about that at all. No questioning if that were true why was the Homosapien ( human) pretty much hairless. If cholesterol is dangerous why is it a major factor in the body with many uses? Why does the body make it.? And those are just two of many obvious points. As for their research and their experts. When did people like Bill Nye the science guy and Neil deGrasse Tyson qualify to talk about health? Yes, they may be more qualified than Gates, but not that qualified. It seems that all that is required is a degree in anything to be one of their experts writing papers. They put out stupid nonsense and they all assume we are too stupid to notice. It's like a poorly written science fiction novel with a weak plot and absolutely no research.

Fact is, most people are stupid and have always been stupid. While in the last 60 years we have made them even dumber by putting neuro toxins in the water, and in the injections we give them. We are a failed species. We couldn't make a go of it as so called free people without destroying the planet and raping it of resources. Simply because we taught each other that greed, envy and inequality were the way to go. I'm no believer in lockdowns or masks but I'd like to add that as an ex-filtration product development engineer showing particle sizes of 0.3 microns and saying 'smaller ones will pass through' is plain WRONG. 0.3 microns is a special number in air filtration because it's the MOST penetrating particle size. Bigger stuff can stick in the fibre matrix (think sieve) - it's called direct impaction and smaller stuff is easier to catch due to brownian motion. A rating at 0.3 microns tells you the worst efficiency you can expect of a given filter product. Smaller and larger particles will be captured with greater efficiency.

rensmith23zohomail.com

Yeah. The reason I'm no believer in masks is the dangers of asymptomatic spread are exaggerated. According to the CDC mask wearing can reduce contagion by up to 1.7% indoors. Not that big a difference. And mask wearing for prolonged periods has its own risks.

Has anybody seen the pro-mask argument about Brownian Motion?

(www.usatoday.com/story/news/factcheck/2020/06/11/fact-check-n-95-filte.. ). I'm wondering if it is legitimate, at all. I know there are no studies proving the effectiveness of mask-wearing, but a lot more people read USA Today than they do medical journals. The main points of the article are 1) that even though the CV19 particles are smaller than the N95 filters, the CV19 particles always bind to larger particles that are trapped by the mask; 2) that even if they don't (which sort of contracts point 1), their Brownian Motion will cause them to be trapped by the masks. I don't need to know all the reasons for not wearing masks—I'm totally onboard with them. I'm interesting in what to tell people when they cite this article. Thanks!

To say “the average person’s chance of surviving this disease is 99.991%” is just plain misleading, and encourages a dangerous sense of complacency. Why? Because only a fraction of the world’s population has had the virus enter their bodies. If everyone got exposed to this fast-spreading successful virus, millions would die. Who knows what the real statistic is, but scientific studies based on actual outbreaks suggest around 99.9% for under 30s, to 85% for the over 80s, with those at most risk being people with pre-existing conditions like diabetes, obesity, heart disease etc.

To be honest, the misleading information being shared on the Dr Mercola site denigrates the brand, and my trust in the service it provides. I had previously thought it was based on science-based research - objective analysis - but some of the things written about COVID-19 lack scientific rigor. At the very least, it’s bad editing of articles. Yes, I am interested in hearing all sides of the argument, and I accept that a lot is unknown, but to allow the implication of a 99.991% survival rate in an article is shameful.

Underlying every political system is money. It is the population control mechanism. Technocracy actually has laudable goals, but using politics and money to attain those goals (as in The Great Reset) will be no more effective than capitalism. The hidden political agenda of self interest and power will always subvert the possibility of true social advancement. The solution? A military-style model of global administration using algorithms based on underlying parameters, possibly voted on by the world population via internet, with the basic goal of "maintaining the planet in a suitable condition for the long term survivability of humans". First up: providing everyone on the planet with housing, healthy food, clean water, relevant education and a mission in line with personal desires and global needs. The current US military is uniquely suited to embark on this mission, once decoupled from politics.

Do you who would decide all of these things - universal housing, food, education, etc? Not us peons, that is for certain. What is given can be, and often is, taken away if one doesn't conform. This is already being done in places such as N Korea. No thank you to your totalitarianism...I like my freedom to decide for myself, while not harming others and not forcing others to my views.

The Australian government's Therapeutic Goods Administration web site reports that the COVID-19 tests (upon which all the media reports depend) are completely unreliable. The TGA is similar to the American FDA or CDC. The TGA web site says "The reliability of COVID-19 tests is uncertain due to the limited evidence base. Available evidence mainly comes from symptomatic patients, and their clinical role in detecting asymptomatic carriers is unclear." The authors of the article linked above say they've saved a screen shot of the TGA web page in case it gets removed. Melbourne has been turned into a medical fascist police state, where, under a "Stage 4" lockdown, substantial fines and/or imprisonment and/or police violence are imposed on anyone who fails to wear a mask or comes out of doors during the nightly curfew, or says or writes anything the authorities disapprove of.

Melbourne is probably being used as the model for the same situation that's likely being planned for the U.S. At this time, ominously, Dr. Fauci and other American fascists are grumbling about the huge crowds of people at beaches celebrating the Labor Day holiday, most of them deemed "too close" together and not wearing masks. The fascists are upset that people are not sufficiently obedient, and we can be pretty sure they're going to do something about it (when they declare a "second wave," based on their fake statistics). Australia is considered to be a Washington puppet state. Its government has undergone CIA-imposed "regime change" (to get rid of leaders who were deemed too liberal) on one or more occasions in the past.
