Freedom Farms, Independence Gardens, & Liberty Community's attacked across the States. Goliath Monopolies can't abide Quality Products, Quality Farm, Living Practices. 500,000 acres of potato production shut down in Idaho. Amos Miller Freedom Farms Project in the same Bull Spit. Maine, Oregon, similar attacks. To rub salt in the wounds, the toxic practices, behaviors of Industrial, Factory Chemical Syn - Sin Farming pollution used as an excuse to put punishments on those who struggle to do Good Works, the Right Thing, practices Healing Not Stealing.

The basic fundamentals for a Strong, Stable, Healthy, Mentally, Emotionally fit populations undermined, degraded, with non-stop 24/7 Legacy Media Propaganda. The next Planned Panic-Demic - millions of chickens culled - empty shelves & $50, $60 dollar a dozen eggs? Millions of burping farting cows culled & emptier shelves? Don't worry, cows can be replaced by Bison, & Bill Gates & friends have test tube lab slimes tasting like meat to replace it.

Two farm workers get pink eye & once again the handy dandy PCR Test ramped up to show virus fragments mean - two are a plague & WE'RE All Going to DIE! Could it be possible when dead chickens are ground up added to feed soaked in molasses & perhaps a stray virus fragment might show up somewhere? The GMO Glyphosate & other chemical offenders aren't bad enough, diseased meat has to be added to the cows' diet because this is the only way Industrial Farms can feed a World?

A World capable of feeding itself if not interfered with! Bird Flu already once used as a Planned Panic-Demic & was a nothing burger then based on Garbage In, Garbage Out Computer Models. Great for the health of Big Pharma & we can use the empty shelves in the stores to store mRNA Jabs, costing billions until they are used up. Maybe a dime or two could be saved if the Bird formula is added to the next additional 10 to 20 Covid Boosters? Think you're not making a difference? Their hysterics say different!

Just. great truths and denunciations in his comment, farmers are finding it increasingly difficult to make a living, the common thread is that, in one way or another, farming is becoming deliberately impossible. The goal is to drive most farmers off their land and impose an agenda that by its very nature seems likely to produce shortages and undermine food security. "In the seed and in the earth we find the answers to each of the crises we face. The crisis of violence and war; the crisis of hunger and disease; "the crisis of destruction of democracy." -Dr.

Vandana Shiva We are currently witnessing an acceleration in the business consolidation of the entire global agri-food chain. High-tech and big data conglomerates, including Amazon, Microsoft, Facebook and Google, have joined traditional agribusiness giants, such as Corteva, Bayer, Cargill and Syngenta, in a quest to impose their food and agriculture model on the world. The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation is also involved (documented in Navdanya International's 'Gates to a Global Empire'), whether purchasing huge tracts of agricultural land, promoting a much-hyped (but failed) 'green revolution' for Africa, pushing for food biosynthetics and genetic engineering technologies or, more generally, facilitate the objectives of agri-food megacorporations.

. This complex is part of an authoritarian global elite that has the ability to coordinate its agenda globally through the United Nations, the World Economic Forum, the World Trade Organization, the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund and other supranational organizations, including influential think tanks. and foundations (Gates, Rockefeller, etc.).

Their agenda for food and agriculture is euphemistically called the “food transition.” Big agribusiness and “philanthropic” foundations position themselves as the saviors of humanity due to their much-touted plans to “feed the world” with high-tech “precision” agriculture, “data-driven” agriculture, and “green” agriculture. zero) production, with “sustainability” being the mantra. Globalist billionaire Bill Gates has been caught telling his inner circle that a devastating “global famine” is the next step in the elite's indomitable march toward total global domination.

The 500 million souls left on Earth after the great depopulation will not only be easily controlled, according to Gates, but will also long for the level of control that elites can currently only dream of. With complete control of the food supply, farmland, seed banks, and genetically modified soil microbes, Gates has positioned himself to raise a false flag worse than 9/11. “The joint crises of climate change and biodiversity erosion can be addressed by planting gardens everywhere, full of biodiversity; full of celebration of life, well-being and abundance.

Gardens of hope everywhere. Farms that give real food. We will continue to create the other world we are sowing (seed by seed, inch by inch of soil, person by person, community by community) until this entire planet is embraced in a circle of life and resurgent love. . “We will not give up.”.-

May it be added, the Nourish Battle is a Major Battle, but be aware it is in the middle of a war declared on the 99%, Nourish and all of us, even those down to the backyard garden are in. It is also Global. We are not just fighting for a tasty, better, more nutritious tomato for our salad it's a Global Theater & can better understood as described in Vandana's Oneness vs. the One Percent. She has receipts!

Posted On 06/18/2024

So, spot on Gui, the behavior of the 1% exposes they don't give one rip what we eat - or if we eat at all. Openly expressed they would prefer to eliminate billions of the 99%, Humanity. When any of the 99% set up structures fulfilling our own necessary, basic needs Locally with Biodynamic Regenerative, Sustainable TRUE Organic we bypass the Debt/Wage systems in ways bringing a potential to balance the current Power imbalance. Proper Farming, Community practices like once upon a time US businesses practices pre-70s where very few used banking for their businesses, makes it possible to bypass the Globalist Financial Banking causing so much mischief.

When the business is its' own bank, no debt chains of paying back interest. When we supply our own basic needs as Vandana points out there is no need for loans for seeds, fertilizer, pesticides, herbicides, massive tracts of land tied up for commodities shutting out our abilities to provide what we actually need. When producing our own food, fare, then what dollars we are stuck needing for those sections of the economy we can't produce on own, become dollars now available, (in a sense, more valuable,) and Massive Monopoly Stores, Tech heavy Amazon strangleholds get reduced and the dollars, we move between ourselves stops the vampire draining of our jobs, money, Independence of communities.

Nourish, Miller and others like them scares the Hell out of Globalist because we are being shown there are better ways! Ways that Heal and Don't Steal - they Nourish Our Garden Planet Earth, and nourish us as well.

Just, it seems that they are afraid of progress on some fronts of sustainable agriculture and livestock. Organic and regenerative food and agriculture be the norm, rather than just the alternative. OCA often talks about our long-term goal with Regeneration International and our allies: to make organic and regenerative food, agriculture, and land use (and natural health) the norm, rather than just the alternative. As Vandana Shiva, our lifelong ally, points out, this would be “the solution to the soil crisis, the food crisis, the climate crisis and the crisis of democracy.” OCA and partners around the world, including Mercola.com, are dedicated to addressing critical issues of environmental pollution, nutrition, junk food, declining public health, climate change, soil health, biodiversity, pollution and water scarcity.

Forced migration, economic justice and rural economic development. “We need to stop corrupt politicians, the Big Ag lobby and the global elite from subsidizing degenerative chemical and fossil fuel intensive agriculture, GMOs, laboratory foods and factory farms. Current global subsidies, which target the usual activity of degenerative agriculture, amount to $700 billion a year.

By shifting priorities, we can pay organic farmers and ranchers not only a fair price for the food and products they produce, but also pay them to sequester excess atmospheric carbon in soils and aboveground plants and trees. in addition to providing other key environmental services. such as preserving clean water, improving soil fertility, protecting biodiversity, wetlands and wildlife habitat,,,,” watch the movie, ARTOIS THE GOAT. www.bing.com/videos/riverview/relatedvideo?q=artois+the+goat+movie++yo.. There is a folk saying... "You can make money farming as long as you do not produce food." There is a lot of truth in that as when you contract with corporations, they always want the lowest cost. It is not the farmer who is getting rich. I also observe that once you grow too large and become visible, you attract unwanted attention from govt and corporations who do not want competition. They will threaten you like a fruit fly in California and try to eliminate you. If you produce food, you have the govt breathing down your neck. I do not find farmer's markets profitable by the time we would pick and package food, then, take a day off work to drive to town, set up and sell.

So, we often just give food away and trust that it will all come back to us in some way. It is best if you can just establish a network like this with many people sharing what they have--then, there is never any question of taxes on sales, either. That kind of record keeping can nickle and dime you to death. We cannot make money selling firewood, either, by the time we cut it, load it and haul it to town. It is difficult to sell firewood in a rural area, where so many people have access to it and you cannot charge as much as in the cities.

The farmer we buy eggs from always meets us at a highway milepost where there is a pull-off. This strategy keeps people from knowing their address or last name. It is a wise precaution for farmers nowadays. Buying "good" food is getting to be more like a black market transaction anymore. Who has it and how can you get some? Govt does not promote wholesome food. We are finding more food security, not only in saving seed and growing a garden, but relying ever more on harvesting wild foods. Govt cannot limit the abundance of nature. We are healthier, rather than being supermarket-dependent.

Almond, the Globalist view nearly all sane activities as Black Market as it bypasses their sticky fingers stuck into everything for their actual end goal - Power & control. They don't need money; they just print it up or take it out, out of digital thin air. Caution is definitely needed but so is reviving such things as backyard get togethers, potlucks to learn our immediate local areas skills, and resources. None of us do it all on our own. SHTF and everything from first aid kits, water, blankets, heat sources, repair skills anything anybody who has been through extreme emergency situations can express those things they didn't realize were of the most importance. Be Prepared - Not Scared!

Like the Amish farmers in Pennsylvania, these women will continue to be persecuted and prosecuted by the power-hungry state bureaucrats working only for their own salaries and pensions and the corporate agriculture payoffs they receive when they leave government employment - unless they enlist savvy, experienced constitutional attorneys to fight this injustice. Hopefully, such court cases will set Constitutional precedent against further similar injustice. In any event, they bring awareness of this injustice to the wider public. I will donate to Nourish Cooperative if half of my donation goes to aggressive, constitutionally-based legal defense of their - and our - right to produce, sell, and purchase food of OUR choice.

"Hillary and Christopher, to their credit, were very cordial during the visit; after all, they were just "doing their job" under current MDARD policies." How far up the corrupt bureaucratic chain does this quaint and forgiving attitude extend? Perhaps their committed friends need to relieve them of some of the many decisions regarding their legal fights against corrupt government, and thus more allow these loving and heroic women to use their energies and passions to produce and sell the wholesome food WE choose to purchase.

As a Michigan resident my observation is that our state is run by a coven of powerful witches. We can call and complain all we want but our calls fall on deaf ears. Ever since they imported "American activist" Joycelyn Benson to be our Secretary of State we went from being a red state to blue/purple/pink overnight. We also suddenly decided to vote for liberal women intent on destroying our state. It's worth noting ~ Michigan is the only peninsula on the planet surrounded by fresh water. Does the global cult want control of this most valuable resource? This seizure of our fresh food is only the beginning. Our beloved state is in trouble.

Let your other politicians know as well. Contact your local government offices and local officials. This has to stop. Yes, as attorney David Berg poignantly predicted in a 2013 article in the Journal of Food Law & Policy: If freedom is the freedom to make our own decisions in life, why can't we make those decisions regarding our food? Over the past century, toxins in industrial foods have intensified as toxic food additives and the mass production of less nutritious produce and processed foods cause health-conscious consumers to forego the government "protections" they provide. Too often they protect corporate profits over human health. Food choice is not a new right; It is a right and a practice as old as civilization. However, it was not until industrialization and regulation that citizens felt the need to assert that right, and now courts and legislators will increasingly have to take it into account. . www.americanthinker.com/articles/2024/01/an_amish_farmers_food_rights_. This is where the problem lies- they ask the government for permission!!! The government is there to serve us, not give orders. And to be honest, they are not even a legit government, but privately owned corporation, posing as government. The best way to go about is is to create a Private Membership Organisation, where PRIVATE is a key word (It is not under "government" jurisdiction). And to have a LAND PATENT (allodial Title), meaning not owning real estate, which is just an overlay of the land, where the "government" owns a legal title to, but to own an actual LAND!

Dr. Mercola, Thank you for sharing this story with your readers. Even though I don't live in MI and cannot afford to help them financially I did send the following to the powers that be: Tim Lyons (Feed Safety Section Manager) Dear Mr. Lyons, I am emailing you to request that you reconsider the cease and desist order on Nourish Cooperative. We very much need the Nourish raw dairy products as pet food supplements for the continued health of my dog. Wow, this set of draconian rules and restrictions are beyond comprehension. This behavior jeopardizes the very core of freedom of choice.

I realize you're "just doing your job," but I honestly believe you would agree this governmental reach is way too far. It will not surprise me to hear back from you via a "canned" letter reply expounding the dangers of such "raw" products even though the utmost and extreme care has been taken to ensure it's safety for consumers. I lived on a small dairy farm for years learning how to milk and take extreme safety measures to make sure our facility was clean and sanitized even beyond government regulations.

Our family daily enjoyed the health benefits of this raw product before pasteurization and no one in the family got sick or died from it. Now it would be great to allow my dog to enjoy it also. Someone needs to question and challenge these rules and regulations. They are needless and extremely cumbersome to "everyone." I am able to purchase a variety of raw dairy brands at countless other pet food stores throughout the state of Michigan, but none of those brands compare to the quality Nourish Cooperative provides. Best, Marnie Ashby Flushing, MI cc: Wendy Powell & Abbie Rowell

The main point here is not to endorse one or any of the current runners in our ritual Silly Season. It is a way to look behind the curtain of the Slick Sales Dog Message Machine, Legacy Media, Talking Heads and all. It is about Our Issues. If much or even in any of Legacy Media or our experts funneled into the narrow messaging serving Global Interest, will we even hear the bare minimum about our concerns, our issues? The point is not if you agree with RFKJR on any or all messaging, it is maybe more so even if you disagree: When Legacy Machinery and Media attack his messages stop and look up to compare what they say, to what he has said, more importantly Done.

You could well a similar thing with Trump, but it would be harder because he in general is all over the place at any given time. If you can even find clips or coverage on RFKJR's message on anything beyond being misrepresented on Vaccines, issues such as sane Agriculture and Living. Who besides alternative media coverage is such a thing being covered? Win, lose or draw, RFKJR's messaging is Our Issues long neglected. The message is the candidate, the Issue's need to Win.

I'm not meaning move the entire operation, but open up a dairy portion in a friendly state and produce modest amounts for awhile until you gage the politics? Then gradually the rest of the operation might end up joining later on? It seems like if they can't beat the Michigan government, eventually closing down their operation there might be the best course. Meanwhile sell off excess land and concentrate on productions of cheese and meat. Also, it appears from this story and others, co-ops seem to be the sticking point, and maybe individual businesses might be the better business model, or am I misunderstanding the political landscape?
