Just a reminder that women considering the Covid injections were told not to get pregnant, nor to have unprotected sex with an injected male. It's also worth remembering the sobering results of pregnant women that eventually participated in the Pfizer trial. They are going to point out every possible reason for the increase in spontaneous abortion, still birth, postnatal death and birth abnormalities that they can find. The truth is manufactured and science is branded.

Too true Alan, but there are many more ways to achieve this hidden in plain sight. How long, for example, before the UK becomes an Islamic State? Where else do you get free health care paid for by the tax contributions of the indigenous population ? How many Christian churches are there in Islamic countries compared with the number of Muslim schools and mosques in the UK? How about race? Do brown or black populations have white only prime ministers? In the UK and Ireland, we have only brown ones. youtu.be/uG2yKSID1MU Straight from the Orwell playbook, one sharp commentator observed: "The big mistake all of the Cultural Marxists and Critical Race Theorists make is that they look at the real racism of the past, then use that to describe the social structures that exist today.

They think the only solution to perceived discrimination is more discrimination in the other direction. So what they end up with is intolerance in the name of tolerance." (We know of course that black African leaders of the past had a burgeoning slave system, but we will let that go for the moment.) The punch line in a live comedy show is "So we stoned her to death" - funny in context, perhaps, but not in reality.

Check out Shariah law for yourselves - see if it fits in with your broad minded religious tolerance. Ask yourself if there a difference between tolerance, licence and cultural suicide? It may be your turn next - broken Britain is already more than half way there. Some so-called "religions" are highly political. The deep state doesn't have a moral compass. The left says women have 100% control over the fetus. The fetus has no rights. We abort about a million per year, we harm about 100,000 per year including death with the vaccines being pushed. How many die is not documented. Denying the great harm caused by medicine is on going and now we layer RNA injections that harm and cause death. Life is no longer considered sacred.

I fear you are right, tbran10. Not so long ago, abortion was considered only if the mother's health was at risk, but then that drove illegal abortions underground putting the mother's life and health at risk anyway. Not sure when abortion on demand became the norm but worse perhaps is artificial insemination on demand for single mothers or  partners, the donor being unknown to the child. Cannot see that we have the right to create fatherless children to satisfy a personal need. Perhaps a stable relationship between loving partners is better than none at all. Who knows? But every child should have the right to know of their biological father and mother. Just because we can do something, does not necessarily mean we should. It seems we have ALL lost our moral compass to some extent.

Yes, Just, many honest lawyers to combat the corruption of the US health system. The US "healthcare" system is complex, expensive and inefficient. All actors in health care, from doctors to insurers and pharmaceutical companies, work in a heavily regulated and massively subsidized industry, full of structural distortions. Patient care is conditioned in response to the economic incentives that create these distortions. The United States has built a healthcare system with incentives that inexorably generate terrible and perverse results. Incentives that do not emphasize health and well-being. Nutrition, exercise, education, emotional safety, our natural environment, and public safety may now be more important than care in producing greater gains in longevity and quality of life Some aspects that independent rulers not pressured by corruption should consider: ----1.- 45% of their total combined revenue from the pharmaceutical industry came from sales in the US alone.

With 4-5% of the world's population and 33% of the population of the developed world, 45% are covered % of all pharmaceutical revenues. ----2.- The annual financial reports of 13 large pharmaceutical companies over the last 8 years reveal that pharmaceutical companies spend a lot on research, but they include marketing budgets in their visits to doctors and advertising expenses.

The highest drug prices in the world, high corporate profits and many television commercials. Some "research" money is actually used to make mediocre products seem better than they really are. ----3. Pharmacy benefit managers are used to negotiate who tend to side with pharmaceutical companies and actually prefer higher drug prices www.kff.org/policy-watch/drug-price-negotiation-doesnt-mean-the-govern.. "Medical errors remain a leading cause of death in the U.S., where an estimated 795,000 people become permanently disabled or die every year due to misdiagnoses..." That result is to be expected whenever unqualified people become licensed doctors. Medical licensing should be eliminated - how long has the world existed without it? And now, since the medical field has been nearly entirely co-opted by the pharmaceutical industry, the people who become doctors are those who choose to manage their medical efforts in the interest of their pharmaceutical masters - allowing incompetent persons to attain medical licensure as long as they agree to maintain the primary focus of advancing the interests of the drug business.

Doctors used to be healers, but now the goal of so many is to retain patients as customers for themselves and the drug industry - if you're cured of your condition the doctor (and the pharmaceutical outfits) lose a customer. What businessman would want to lose customers? Change my mind.

We all know exactly why. Obviously, on the top of the list is the Covid jab. But those of us that can actually see what is going on are still considered conspiracy theorists. Amazes me, with all the whistleblowers, all the good doctors warning us, all the proof and people still get the jab. Common sense has disappeared for most. And you can lay this one at Gate's feet. Even when he admitted and it's on YouTube that they control the population numbers with vaccines, people still flock to get them. When the Humanists are in control, death follows. When doctors and nurses fall in line with gag orders, they are no better.

Once again prophecy being fulfilled. The delusion is real. The only hope is the One Who died on the cross for us. No matter what happens in this world, we have a choicerepent and embrace Christ and be with Him for eternity, or an eternity without Him. It's only going to get worse in this world until He comes back, but that will be to pour out His wrath. Only after that will things be different. Choose what you will, but as Scripture says, "choose this day whom you will serve."

"Tragically, many so embraced the fear culture, they didn't even need an authoritarian figure to tell them to comply with rules, even when it was clear they had no medical benefit." So true and so tragic. I have gotten where I do not even go to the doctor because I get tired of arguing about the vaccines that I will not get! The doctor's office started with me when I was having a physical a couple of month before the covid jabs came out. It is sad when you refuse to go to the doctor so you do not get sick.

All dogs, yes I have walked away from my "Dr" as well. I quit my job a bit before retirement age in Jan 2022, all because of the covid politics that were coming down on me. In doing so, I also walked away from health insurance. I went to my "Dr" one last time for an annual physical. I was already fairly disgusted with the approach at the practice after my old Dr. had retired about 5 years prior. That last physical sealed the deal for, I am avoiding the mainstream western medicine approach going forward. I have been doing Chinese medicine with a qualified practitioner with 40 years experience for at least five years now. My overall health has actually improved and I'm getting older (early sixties). I was for the most part in fairly good health, but she has pinpointed deficiencies and targeted them with herbs and dietary recommendations, the results have been amazing and at a lower cost than western medicine.

"Among the leading causes of death, infant mortality rates increased in cases of maternal complications and bacterial sepsis" Hospitals are germ-fests where one has a high probability of getting a serious infection. I do not know what the problem is, but places that should be going the extra mile to be as sterile as possible just are not clean, and it is not a brand new problem. Dating back to 2007, I have had a number of friends and family members who entered a hospital for an unrelated problem and ended up with sepsis or other serious infection - some made it out, some did not.

In Scotland its even worse - the taxes are higher than the rest of the UK A new hate law as of 1st April will jail you for 7 years if you say the wrong thing and are a common white person, but its ok if you are from a minority group that won't apply and can continue saying anything you like without retribution.

Another factor might be the fact that states which have restrictions on abortion have a healthcare problem. Single moms with unplanned pregnancies are being neglected which can also lead to a spike in infant moretality.

When Mederna, Pfizer and J&J rolled out their Coronavirus Shots, I would tell people to just wait until vaccinated people coupled up in their homes "with nothing else to do" start making babies. It's bad enough poor eating habits, obesity and lack of exercise have contributed to poor health outcomes so you expect the same if you are producing children who have health issues and don't live long. I retired in from an office in 2020 were just about every child born over the previous 25 years had health issues. This is not normal. People need to wake up to everything affecting our health and wellbeing!

“ “In 2022, more than one-third of the 3,143 counties in the U.S were classified as maternity "deserts" without hospitals or birth centers offering obstetric care, and with no obstetric providers. The lack of care was blamed on finances, as obstetric care services are "deemed unprofitable." “ The sad thing about that statement is the apparent need for obstetric care, since pregnancy is NOT a disease, most healthy women don't need much or any actual care, just observation. All four of our babies were born at home under the care of a local midwife. Our firstborn was born breech after he turned sometime in the last couple of days before his birth, as his cord was a bit short, so he he turned as he descended further into the birth canal.

That breech birth would have been chaotic at the hospital, instead it was peaceful and uneventful at home. The diet and health of the average American these days has a lot to do with need for complex prenatal care. Then immediately assaulting the newborn's immune system with toxic injections certainly sets them up for health issues or death. It's really a sad place that we now find ourselves in. The medical industrial complex is so firmly entrenched, I wonder if the average American will ever wake up and get themselves free from it.

Thank you. This is of grave concern to everyone who looks toward the health of the next generation. One of the uncharted areas of infant stress, particularly for premature babies, is the intensive amounts of EMF radiation to which these helpless babies are subjected in neonatal care units. A friend, who does EMF remediation and consulting for the DOD, told me confidentially that the levels he measured in one major metropolitan hospital were 'off the charts' high. What causes these readings? According to him, all the monitors and communication devices that keep track of the vital signs and communicate 24/7 through and around the infant. The adjoining radiology unit also likely contributed. He was asked to investigate because there was a marked increase in infant mortality in this unit. Needless to say, his recommendations went unheeded and the excessive infant deaths in this unit presumably continue.

Every time I hear the term "better absorption" it makes me laugh. Better absorption than what ?? I have been using vitamin supplements and herbs since I was a little kid. I am a lot older and a lot smarter but I learned one thing from my mother way back when. She was a charter subscriber to PREVENTION MAGAZINE long before vitamins were popular and PREVENTION was just a hack for supplement companies. She told me that the only vitamins worth taking are "natural vitamins" and the stuff like One-A-Day were not only a waste of money but a total lie. The only way industry could pack the amount of vitamins they advertise into one little football shaped capsule was if the vitamins were manufactured from "synthesized vitamins" meaning they were not natural.

They were chemical concoctions made in a factory. Synthesized vitamins ARE NOT the same as natural ones. Oh, you have to ingest more natural ones but that is because they are a natural product and not an alleged chemical equivalent. To this day I take about 30 different supplements each day made from natural ingredients. People used to ask me how much I spent on supplements. My answer "a lot but better on supplements than on doctors and hospitals. And what do they do to make a vitamin more absorb-able ? RAISE THE PRICE !!!! It is a total con job and nothing else.

“Demise handling”, eh? If he were still with us, I would send that soft language gem to comedian/philosopher George Carlin, who opened our eyes to words that hide the truth. Some show sympathy for families in times of loss and grief, but in official contexts betray either the need to disguise the true intention from the gullible who support the globalist agenda, or to pretend that all is well on planet lockdown when common sense tells you it isn't. We know now that “sustainability” is code for poverty, genocide and slavery, that “net Zero” is NOT zero and doesn't matter anyway and your carbon footprint won't stop the earth's climate from going through hot and cold cycles as it has always done. A four-letter word would set everything straight and we could begin to repair the damage, by naming the source of our suffering, anxiety and threatened destruction: lies. youtu.be/-ZAo_dUbh9s

Does anyone else remember a YT (?) clip, I believe, in which a mortician who picked up bodies to transport to his facility, said that he discovered an astounding number of infants stored in a separate area? In the video he says he asked someone at the hospital if they were aware - the person said yes, but the hospital didn't want the number of infant deaths to be known - hence the separate storage facility. This was a couple of years or so ago when morticians began speaking out. He also said, that prior to that, infant deaths had been very small - 1 or 2 a month as I recall. Question is.... Who are we? What have we become?
